An Afternoon with Brian McLaren

"Climate justice through faith-inspired connection, education, advocacy, and action"

Register now for this great opportunity to meet with author Brian McLaren at San Ramon Valley United Methodist Church on Sunday March 2nd at 1.30 p.m.

Brian D. McLaren, noted author, speaker, and activist, pulls no punches in addressing the frightening realities of our time that center on climate change and consequent economic and civilizational upheaval. He writes that “we humans have made a mess of our civilization and our planet, and not enough of us seem to care enough to change deeply enough or quickly enough to save ourselves.”

On Sunday, March 2, 1:30 - 5 pm, McLaren will talk about his most recent book, Life After Doom: Wisdom and Courage for a World Falling Apart, in which he addresses our response to ecological overreach. While forms of denial might be the most common response, McLaren opts for facing reality and embracing the complexity of hope, the necessity of grief, and the need for new ways of becoming and belonging in turbulent times.

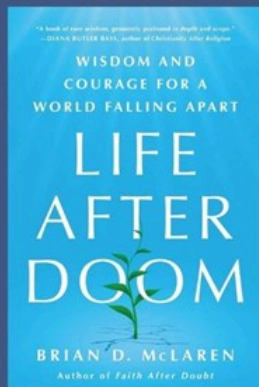

The event includes audience engagement, book-signing, and networking with local environmental groups. The goal is to encourage community dialogue and increase local awareness and action.

The event is hosted by San Ramon Valley United Methodist Church at 902 Danville Rd., Alamo, CA. Click here for more information.
